UNDP (United Nations Development Programme) is a United Nations agency that works to promote sustainable development and poverty reduction. It provides technical assistance and financial support to developing countries. UNDP's work is organized into four main areas: economic development, social development, environmental development, and governance. The organization has a long history of working with governments, the private sector, and civil society to address development challenges. UNDP's current focus is on achieving the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) by 2030.
